

I would like to voice my concern over reports that the NJ Do Not Call List is in jeopardy. I have found that this option has greatly reduced the number of annoying solicitations that plague our homes. Although I still receive some solicitations, it is a more manageable amount.

I would NEVER purchase anything via a telephone solicitation. With that in mind, I would like to see this public service continue. This is a useful program that has had tremendous public support. It would be a travesty to have this eliminated due to the desires of a special interest. I believe that this does not limit any free speech nor access to a market. The solicitors can still say whatever they wish to people who want to hear it. But I do not want to be cornered in my own home by repeated calls from unwanted solicitors.

Regards,

Richard Stanton